If some people had their way we would not see these players...

If the Nazi BNP and the National Front had their way, none of these players would be gracing our football grounds. These would-be Adolf Hitlers fantasise about gas chambers as they give their sieg heil salutes and aim abuse at black players and fans. But can you imagine what football would be like without the likes of Andy Cole, Les Ferdinand, Ian Wright, Paul McGrath, or Des Walker? Can you imagine any freedom or enjoyment if the Nazi scum even got a sniff of power? Over the last few years the atmosphere at grounds has changed remarkably. Racist chants and abuse have declined and there's far less aggro. But we should not kid ourselves. The Nazis are still around and there's still a long way to go. The PFA's Kick Racism Out of Football and the many club initiatives like at Leeds, Newcastle and Chelsea have made a real difference.

The vast majority of us hate the Nazis and want black players and fans to play their part in the best game in the world.

We should not be intimidated by them. If all decent fans stand up we can kick the Nazis out of our game once and for all.
